DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 9, 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rautila (US 6,524,189).

As to claim 1, Rautila teaches a mobile (figure 2) apparatus comprising:

first interface (260) means for communicating over a first communication network using a first data format;

second interface (262) means for communicating over a second communication network using a second data format; and,

processing (250) means, said processing means being coupled to the first and second interface means, and being configurable to forward first data received from the first network to the second network after conversion of the received first data from the first format to the second format (col.4, line 31-col.5, line 8).

As to claim 2, Rautila teaches the apparatus of Claim 1, wherein the processing means is configurable to forward second data received from the second network to the first network after conversion of the received second date from the second format to the first format (col.4, line 59-col.5, line 67).

As to claim 4, Rautila teaches an apparatus of Claim 1, wherein the first communication network is a radio telephony network (col.2, lines 7-14).

As to claim 6, Rautila teaches the apparatus of Claim 1, wherein the second communication network is a Personal Access Network (col.2, lines 7-14).

As to claim 7, Rautila teaches the mobile apparatus of Claim 1, wherein the processing means is configured by a user (col.4, lines 32-48).

As to claim 9, Rautila teaches the mobile apparatus of Claim 1, wherein the processing means is configured by data received from either one of the first and the second communication networks (col.4, lines 32-48).

As to claim 12, the claim is a system claim of claim 1, therefore, the claim is interpreted and rejected as set forth in the claim 1.

As to claim 13, the claim is a system claim of claim 4, therefore, the claim is interpreted and rejected as set forth in the claim 4.

As to claim 14, the claim is a system claim of claim 6, therefore, the claim is interpreted and rejected as set forth in the claim 6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3, 5, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rautila in view of Makela (US 6,301,338).

As to claims 3, 5, and 8, Rautila teaches a mobile of claim 1, Rautila fails to teach the received first data is text message data, the first data format is a Short Message Service data format and the processing means is configured by a speech command. Makela teaches the received first data is text message data (col.2, lines 54-62 and col.9, lines 15-27), the first data format is a Short Message Service data format (col.5, lines 1-23) and the processing means is configured by a speech command (col.8, lines 6-16). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the teaching of Makela into the system of Rautila in order to enhance system performance of the mobile telephone and game unit.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10, 11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

As to claims 10 and 11, the teaching of above prior art fails to teach the mobile further comprising a user interface for exchanging data of a third format with a user and wherein, the processing means is configurable to forward third data received from either one of the first network and the second network to the user- interface after conversion of the received third data to the third format.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

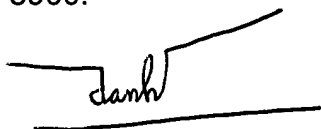

A. Karabinis et al (US 6,134,437) teaches the dual mode satellite/cellular phone architecture with physical separation mode.

B. Kobayashi teaches (US 6,633,759) teaches communication system and mobile communication device, portable information process device, and data communication method used in the same.
